“ Rest in peace dad. I don't know what to do without you. You were a great father and friend. You were always so patient with me. I've been dreading this since Paw Paw Hymel died when I was in 7th grade. His funeral was the first I had attended as well as being the first person I knew that had passed. Seeing you lose your dad and the pain it caused stayed with me. I was always afraid of losing you. Now that I have, my fears have become reality. I'm lost and heartbroken. I have always used our relationship as a model for raising my three sons. You always told me you loved me, you were always there for me and you were incredibly patient. I'm comforted by the fact that you are no longer in pain and are resting in peace now. On one of our last rides together I told you I love you as you were looking out the passenger window. You didn't respond so I repeated it. You then said, "I heard you. I just like to hear you say it". I'll always remember that and I'll always remember the love you had for everyone. We're all heartbroken. I love you Pops.

“ I'll always remember Bryan as a good friend and classmate and his humor (at least in the 50's) was always an enjoyable and memorable part of him. RIP Bryan!
