“ Herbert “Roc” became my best friend in high school. I can’t remember what event brought us together that Junior year, but we found out soon how much we had in common. Growing up in LaPlace I can’t remember anyone with more changing nicknames. I never did hear the story behind the Sweet Roll name. I just called him Herb and he seemed ok with that. He drove me to school almost every day, and we talked about rock-in-roll, girls, school, etc. We thought we could solve every problem in the world in those youthful years. Fishing, hunting, shrimping, parties, proms, concerts, and long cruising trips in Herb’s orange mobile brought us closer as friends. He was a trusting friend, talented and skillful in many ways, and I always admired his ability to view life in a practical, common sense way. He will be sadly missed but never forgotten. Thoughts and prayers to all of his family. Wayne “Cotton” Rogers
