“ Rick Gil and I started in the sign business around the same time over 29 years ago, the dawn of the computerized sign-making age. We ended up working together in two different sign companies over the years. A chance meeting at a small trade show 5 years ago rekindled our friendship. Rick was quick-witted and always had something funny to say, even if sometimes when no one thought it was funny! At least he never gave up trying to make people laugh, a very rare gift. We would catch up every six months or so meeting at McAlister's Deli for lunch. He always chose this place. When he found out I went back to bible college, he was very inquisitive of what I was learning and having questions of his own, I would ask me about the things of God, which I was happy to share. He was very proud of his daughter, who is a miracle in her own right. He was the Sign Shop Coordinator at Southern Eagle Distributing for many years. Football season was the busiest time of the year for him and his team. Now that the Saints are in the play-offs, I know he doesn't mind taking a break from what is to surely be a back-breaking next few months for his sign making team. His handi-work is all over the city though you would never know it. When you see a Bud Lite truck go by, know that my friend had his hands in making that boring delivery truck a thing of art. When you see the Saints signs above the cooler doors at your favorite convenient store, my friend printed those. We used to joke about the signs we made in the past that are still up today! Rick, you will be missed. Until we meet again, my old friend. Richie Ladner

“ So very sad to hear this news. Rick was a life long friend. I met Rick when I was a kid. He started teaching some of the neighborhood kids Karate. He gave his time and money teaching us and paying for us to be in tournaments and such. Lots of good memories for a lot of kids. AS I grew up I had the pleasure of working with Rick for one summer, we had some laughs and ate very good. I moved to MS and didn't get to see Rick much, but we did talk on the phone from time to time. Our last conversation ended with him wanting to come up to MS and spend a few days... I wish we could have done that. Praying for peace and comfort for Ms Sean and Natalie.

RIP old friend, your were one of the best people I have known.

PS: Maybe they will have white rice in Haven!
